

Greg McKenna

Greg McKenna is the National Practice Leader and leads Gallagher Bassett's public sector practice. Having previously served as Director of Communication, Greg helps connect GB's public sector clients to each other and the broader enterprise to advance best practices and results. He is a subject matter expert on legislation, regulations, and ethics rules that impact public claims and risk management. He is co-author of The Way, GB's weekly briefing on governmental affairs and the risk and insurance industry. Greg serves as a Trustee for RISK PAC, the Political Action Committee of RIMS, the Risk and Insurance Management Society. He is the immediate past Chair of the Medicare Advocacy Recovery Coalition based on Washington, DC, and is an officer and past Chair of the Association of Claims Professionals. Prior to joining Gallagher Bassett in 2008, Greg was a civil litigator with the firm of Cremer, Kopon, Shaughnessy & Spina, LLC, in Chicago. He holds a law degree from Loyola University Chicago School of Law, a Master's of Science Degree from Georgetown University, and a Bachelor's Degree from the University of Notre Dame. With his wife and three children, Greg lives in the northwest suburbs of Chicago.
