

Climbing Wall

Check out your options to Climb

Climbing with a belayer. You will need someone who is belay-certified to protect you if you want to climb using the ropes. The wall is not staffed with belayers, you must bring your own person who is belay-certified and 14 years or older. We provide belay training too, see below!

Bouldering. This un-harnessed/rope-free climbing in the bouldering area only, the shorter side of the wall which only goes up to 12 feet.

Auto-Belays. These are the automatic belaying devices that allow climbers to hook in and be belayed without another person. We have two of these devices.

Getting Certified with us

General Orientation. Anyone who wants to use the wall at all will need a general orientation. This free orientation will allow you to boulder, climb on the wall using the auto-belays or by being belayed by a certified belayer. It will not allow you to belay someone else. Free / 15-20 minutes.

Belay Certification. This will allow you to belay for another climber. Must be 14 years old. Free for members, $10 for Non-Members / 45 minutes

Belay Skills Test. Climb a lot already at other locations and just need a quick run through to test your skills? This one's for you. Free / 30 minutes.

Who can Climb

Climbers. 22 lbs and up. Yep, we said "22 pounds"! Ask us about our special harnesses for little guys!

Belayers. Must be at least 14 years of age to belay.

- During open hours, all Climbers under 10 years of age must be supervised by a parent within the wall area. Sorry, no exceptions.
- Want to climb when the wall is closed? Learn more about this on the back of this information sheet.

Cool stuff about our wall

- We're open to the public!
- We have 1,400 square feet of climbing space and the wall is 30 feet tall.
- We have 4 Top Rope stations and a great bouldering area.
- Three Auto-Belays
- The wall is available for team building functions. The wall is great for birthday parties and rentals too! Rental fees include exclusive access to the wall with staffed belayers for your group. Ask a staff member for details.
