

NOTICE TO INDUSTRY

Blower Door Test Affidavit

EFFECTIVE Wednesday, March 27, 2024

We are writing to inform you of an important update regarding the blower door test requirement for construction projects within the City of Cape Coral. Effective immediately, the City of Cape Coral will no longer require the submission of a blower door test affidavit as part of the construction permitting process. However, please note that the blower door test itself remains a mandatory requirement.

This change is part of our ongoing efforts to optimize processes and improve efficiency while ensuring compliance with industry standards and local regulations. Although the submission of the blower door test affidavit is no longer necessary, construction projects are still required to undergo and pass the blower door test.

We urge all builders and contractors to continue to adhere to energy efficiency standards outlined by relevant building codes and regulations. Failure to comply with blower door test requirements may result in delays in the permitting process.
