The Town Council of Merrillville Designating the Month of February as "Black History Awareness Month"

Whereas, although African-Americans have been part of the fabric of American life since earliest colonial time, and recognition of their contributions to the making of this nation were, for generations, ignored, minimized, or consciously suppressed; and,

Whereas, born to parents who were former slaves, Dr. Carter G. Woodson spent his childhood working in the coal mines of Kentucky, enrolled in high school at the age of twenty, graduated within two years, and went on to earn a doctorate from Harvard University; and,

Whereas, in his studies, Dr. Woodson noted the fact that the history books of the day largely ignored black Americans, except in isolated instances, and those instances served primarily to reflect the inferior social position assigned to the African American community; and,

Whereas, resolving to write black Americans into the nation's history, Dr. Woodson established the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History in 1915, now known as the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History, and founded the Journal of Negro History in 1916; and,

Whereas, as a result of Dr. Woodson's pioneering work in completing, rather than writing, American history, Americans now have an increased awareness of the contributions of individuals of African American heritage; and,

Whereas, in 1926, Dr. Woodson inaugurated the second week of February as Negro History Week as a device to focus national attention on the contributions of black people throughout our history; and,

Whereas, it was appropriate that Negro History week was expanded to Black History Month in 1976, the year of our nation's Bicentennial; and,

Whereas, because of the efforts of men and women like Dr. Woodson, black history is becoming a part of mainstream history, and a part of the common heritage of all Americans; and,

Whereas, the tapestry of this unique rainbow nation of differing nationalities and ethnic and racial backgrounds is made richer as a result; and,

Whereas, the Town Council of Merrillville, Indiana is committed to Diversity, Inclusion and Equity, through the continued educational programs for all town employees, practice daily our recently signed and displayed Diversity and Equity Statement we would like to make the following resolution.

Now, therefore be it resolved, that the Town Council of the Town of Merrillville, Indiana, does hereby proclaim that each February going forward, commencing with February 2023 shall be designated and recognized as BLACK HISTORY AWARENESS MONTH and call upon the citizens of Merrillville to observe, discuss and educate others with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and other activities about the value and contributions that Black American's have made to the betterment of our nation, state and more specifically, our hometown of Merrillville. We also encourage all residents to participate in our inaugural Black History Celebration Dinner scheduled for February 23, 2023 at the Mike Anderson Event Center inside the Dean and Barbara White Community Center.

Signed by the following Town Council members and attested to by the Clerk-Treasurer, this 24th day of January, 2023.
